Worksheet 3 tapescripts

1. Jack

I think my biggest decision was to move back to the UK from Saudi Arabia. I worked there for 6 years and saved a lot of money. My school offered me work for two more years, but I decided to return to England.

I think it was a really good decision. I enjoyed working in Saudi Arabia very much and had a really great time. I made loads of friends and loved the climate. But I also missed home, and I think six years was a long time to be away.

If I hadn't moved back to the UK, I think I probably would have stayed in Saudi for a few more years, but then I wouldn't have got this great job. I also wouldn't have met my lovely wife, we wouldn't have got married and we wouldn't have had our beautiful baby!

2. Kate

I had to make a huge decision when I was only 18. I didn't really know what I wanted to do with my life, so I applied to do lots of different courses. I was accepted to start a course to become a chef, and was also offered a place at university to study geography.

I really didn't know what to do and couldn't choose between the two courses. My mum gave me some good advice and said: 'Why don't you just get a job for a year and think about what you really want to do. You can decide which one to study next year.'

So anyway, I got a job as a florist for a year and really thought about what to do. Finally I decided that I was more interested in going to university. But I didn't choose geography, I chose French!

I'm really glad I decided to think about things for a year because I realised that I really wasn't that interested in cooking or geography! Studying French made me interested in languages generally and that's why I became an English teacher.

If I hadn't had a year off, I'd probably have become a chef and I think I'd have been happy, but I'm happy now anyway!

3. Sue

I made a really big decision on my 30th birthday. I decided to try to lose weight.

I've always really enjoyed eating and didn't use to like healthy food. Anyway, I saw a photo of myself on holiday and hardly recognised myself, I was so overweight. Well, I joined a slimming club and managed to lose a lot of weight.

It was the best decision of my life and I feel like a different person now. I still can't believe I used to eat so much junk food.

If I hadn't joined the club, I think I'd have continued eating unhealthily and putting on weight. I think eventually I would have got ill if I hadn't made the decision.
