

Dialogue 7: Ordering a meal.

Jean: Where shall we sit? Look! There are some free seats in the corner.

Jill: The seats by the window are better. It'll be cooler there.

Jean: Okay. What would you like to eat?

Jill: I'm really hungry. I think I'll have chicken and chips with baked beans. Why don't you have chicken too?

Jean: I don't eat meat. It makes me ill. I'll have a cheese sandwich instead.

Jill: And what about drinks? I think I'll have some mint tea.

Jean: No that's really expensive! It's three dollars sixty cents! I'll have a coffee; it's much cheaper.

Waiter: Good evening.

Jill: Good evening. We'll have one chicken and chips with baked beans and one cheese sandwich please.

Waiter: No problem! What would you like to drink?

Jean: A mint tea and a coffee please. Oh - and please bring me some cream for the coffee.

Waiter: Okay. let me repeat your order. One chicken and chips with beans, one cheese sandwich, a mint tea and a coffee with cream.
