I was living in Viet Nam

I often went on fun motorbike adventures

We didn't usually plan our trips

We improvised our adventures

We decided where we wanted to go when we saw things that looked interesting

It was a Sunday morning

I took this picture early in 2010

None of us can remember exactly where we were

We stopped to take pictures

These two girls came walking past

It was still early in the morning

They'd had a good day

They'd sold everything in their baskets
