Who am I?

not

see joshua underwood for more info

I am...

- an EFL teacher & teacher trainer
- with a background in education technology research & design
- I'd self-assess my DigiCompEdu as C1 (see EU framework)

Why now?

...voice interaction has improved more in the last 30 or so months than it did in its first 30 years, word error rate for voice-recognition systems [...] is now on par with humans

For example, try dication.io - What do you think? How accurate is it? What opportunities for learning does it offer?

Why now?

And Artificial Intelligence (AI) is getting much better at interacting in human like ways

What kinds of questions are AIs (currently) good/bad at answering?

- Think of some questions to test the AI
- Try them out
- Prepare a mini presentation on what AI's are good/bad at. Say why? P.E.E.L

“It is easy to envision a future when robots initially take the positions of teaching and administrative assistants and then gradually, when the students, parents, teachers, school administrators, and government officials accept this technology, replace most of the teachers in the education institutions.”

Ivanov, S. (2016) Will robots substitute teachers? Paper presented at the 12th International Conference “Modern science, business and education”, 27-29 June 2016, Varna University of Management, Bulgaria. Yearbook of Varna University of Management, Vol. 9, pp. 42-47.
